Historical Note

The Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention organized in 1845 as a result of the unified American Baptists, under the Triennial Convention, splitting into Northern and Southern branches. The Foreign Mission Board sought to continue the mission activity of Baptists begun with the Triennial Convention on behalf of Baptists living in the South. The FMB opened its first mission in China then expanded to include Africa, Brazil, Italy, Mexico, and Japan in its work. Based out of Richmond Virginia, the Foreign Mission Board oversaw missionary work and served as a liaison between missionaries and the Convention. In 1997, the Southern Baptist Convention voted to change the name of the Foreign Mission Board to the International Mission Board. Today, the IMB works in hundreds of nations with a missionary force of nearly 5,000.

Scope and Content

The Foreign Mission Board Historical File contains materials spanning the years 1845-1990 that have sufficient historical value but do not clearly fit within the other major series of Foreign Mission Board records. The Historical File contains the Foreign Mission Board's first annual report written in 1846. Other important documents from the nineteenth century are also included such as the annual report from 1849, committee reports concerning the missions to China, Africa and Brazil, and early FMB financial records. Correspondence related to topics such as the Baptist 75 Million Campaign (predecessor to the current Cooperative Program), interdenominational cooperation, "Colored Baptist Ministry," and missions education are included. Also included is correspondence from prominent Southern Baptists such as William B. Johnson, J.M. Frost, and other early SBC figures. Material by, and containing information regarding, FMB leaders such as James B. Taylor, Henry Allen Tupper, Robert J. Willingham, James F. Love, Charles E. Maddry, M. Theron Rankin, and Baker James Cauthen are also included in this collection. Manuscripts by, and about FMB missionaries and their experiences as well as books concerning the nature and theological foundations of missions are contained in this collection. Also includes reports related to missions strategy from the 1970's and 1980's. Finally, the Historical File also contains copies of many of the various publications of the Foreign Mission Board. Included are copies of The Commission ranging from the 1840's to the 1990's. Copies of The Foreign Mission Journal from 1874-1915, and its successor Home and Foreign Fields from 1916-1936 are included as well.

Arrangement

The arrangement of the boxes and files in this series is based on the box sequence of the FMB and IMB. The internal arrangement of each box has retained the arrangement given by the IMB which is generally alphabetical, then chronological.
